Who is still around?

Posted by Atomic Dustmen - 26 Jan 2012 13:00

Howdy Warlorders!

So I got an email from Dragonwizard maybe a month ago seeing who was still playing both online and pbem. I always played online, but sadly, I don't think I have played for probably three years. Before that though I must have played maybe 1000 games in the previous 8 or 10 years. Well, I know I won't be able to play 1000 in the next 8 or 10, but I would like to start to play again. I have time right now to play online, although come spring I will probably only be able to play pbem. I never had the desire to play pbem before, heh, but if it's the only way I'll be able to play eventually then I might give it a try.

Crazy Horse? Red Viking? You around?

I actually logged into Battle HQ tonight and saw PHUNT!!! But sadly he didn't respond to me....

I registered at the Last Citadel as well, so it looks like I will give pbem a shot....

Also, thanks for keeping this site alive fellas, it is much appreciated. This is the best game around...

Atomic Dustmen

==========

Re: Who is still around?

Posted by Trampled - 30 Jan 2012 10:19

Yeah Me and Crazyhorse play in mornings on weekends early 5am pst. Or a few other guys play in evenings Phunt,red viking.

==========

Re: Who is still around?

Posted by KGB - 30 Jan 2012 10:58

I'm around too.

I know Hugh was around in the fall before work got busy for him. He might come back for a few games as well.

If you are interest in trying something similar to DLR PBEM, I suggest you check out the Warbarons link at the left. It's a PBEM style hybrid of War2/DLR. Lots of active games there and they hope to get simultaneous stuff going soon.

KGB

==========

Re: Who is still around?

Posted by Dravaal - 01 Feb 2012 13:01

_____

Wouldn't mind giving multi-player another go, was good times with CH and the like, even though I always lost.

Will hopefully find the time at some stage, being +8GMT makes it difficult to find you guys online though.

==========